ENGLISH

44. (B) The "Recycle Bin" on a computer serves as a temporary storage location for files and folders that have been deleted by the user. When you delete a file or folder on a computer, it is typically moved to the Recycle Bin instead of being permanently removed from the system. This allows users to recover accidentally deleted files or folders. However, it's important to note that the files remain in the Recycle Bin until it's emptied, at which point they are permanently deleted from the system. The Recycle Bin does not perform functions like renaming files or sorting files by type; its primary purpose is to provide a safety net for deleted items.
